

eyes.

unwelcome thoughts fill the emptiness of this night stubborn wide eyes wish to be sleeping ignorant to the reality of consciousness when my eyelids finally turn the room black a sigh of relief escapes from my lips i escape to the world of lies and happiness until the morning light creeps through the cracks in the blinds and forces my blurry eyes to open exposed to the ugly scenes the world of the mindless the careless

the numb

the world you and i live in.