

Sacrifice of the Heart

1.

They say

the universe is out of balance. That

Chaos has

not been banished

Only

bound

in place

by the power of the planets and stars.

2.

We are sisters.

Twins of light and dark

Forever together

No matter if the earth shines in the sky

or the Sun

overrides the moon's light.

Princesses beloved and prized for our powers.

At least,

One of us is,

My dear sweet twin of light,

With hair as

blond as a drop

Sunlight.

Draped in papery white

of the full moon, is chosen for our throne.

I,

I, On the opposite side have

Locks dark as the moon's

farside

and with a

voice as cold as space.

3.

In the world of dreams

the priest and guardian of the golden crystal of dreams, Sister to the

moon's own silver

crystal,

prophecies the coming

destruction of Chaos.

According to him, an ancient ritual must take place to preserve the peace between

The moon,

our planets sisters and star cousins,

for all time sake.

The blood of the dark moon must be discharged by the pure white one.

Only the

sacrifice

my sacrifice
will release the
cosmic energy necessary
to cast out Chaos
From this plane
for infinity.

4.

I now understand,
why I was
shunned, hated, even looked on as a mistake
by all,
but my twin
who loved me.

My creation was
shunned.

Only my
death warranted.

Alas my beloved sister
refused to allow
my death to pass,

even as
our world splintered
around us.

I loved her
so much that I

encased myself in her heart.

To watch over her

as mother allowed her to be reborn.

I couldn't allow,

her to recall my

existence for

both our sakes.

Chaos has all

but been banished,

but

still evil holds on.

The dark of the

moon

must join with

the light

and put an end to this struggle.

We are sisters

one light,

one dark.

The ritual approaches,

Blood, my blood

will spill by my

sisters' hands to save

The universe

and my

sister from

Chaos

Forever.
